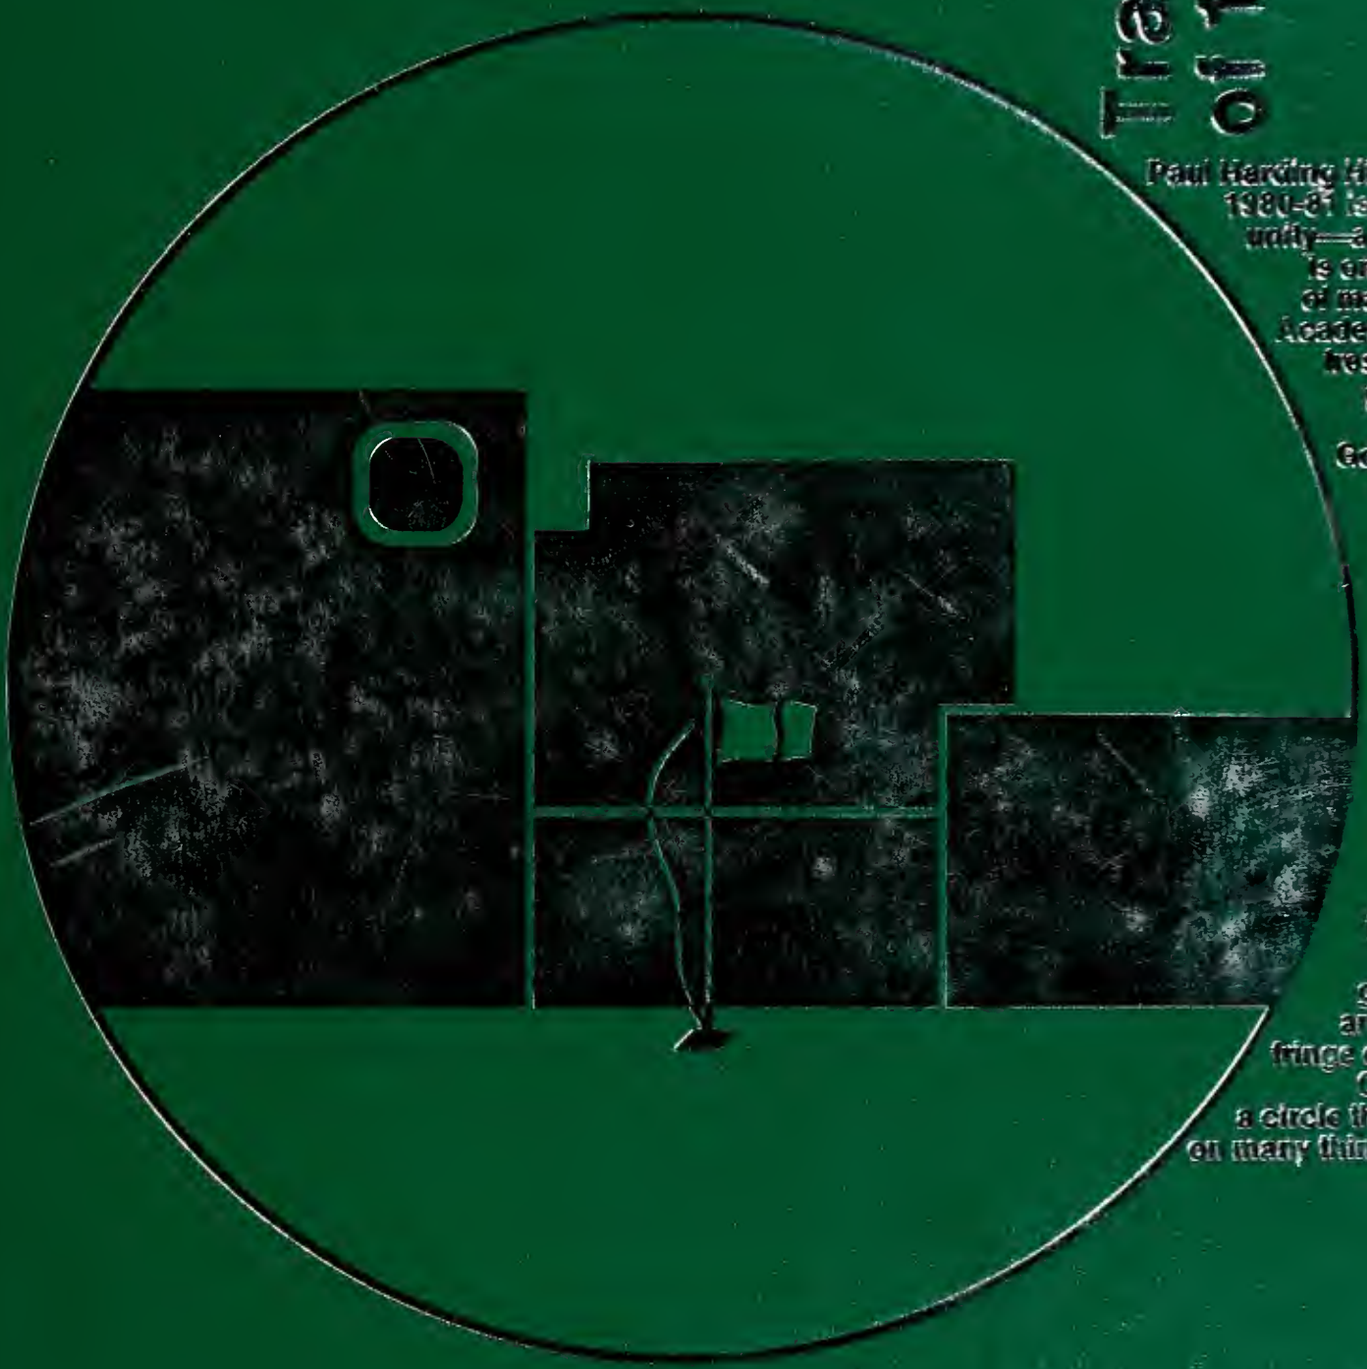
Traces of 1981



Paul Harding High School 1980-81 is a circle of unity—a circle that is on the fringe of many things. Academics, from freshman Language Arts to senior Government, are on the fringe of higher education. Sports, from cross-country to baseball, are on the fringe of success. Students, from orientation to graduation, are all on the fringe of maturity. Our school, a circle that borders on many things, lies . . .

On the fringe

The circle expands with each year. After the student pays his "dues" in his freshman year, the growth of his circle is continuous.

Mastering study techniques and classroom etiquette is a chore for some and easy for others. "Looking Out For #1" philosophy changes to "Be Respectful and Be Responsible" . . . two virtues that freshmen have pretty well learned by the end of their freshman classes.

Because students have a wide choice of academic classes to take their junior and senior year, they can develop the interests that they plan to pursue once outside the large brick "fortress" called Harding.

The spirit fever seems to hit the sophomores the hardest. During that year, many school friendships are formed . . . mostly through participation in extra curricular activities. These growth experiences expand the circle.

By the senior year, students are somewhat "world-wise." They have formed their values, they understand what is happening and why and they begin to see the road ahead. The circle expands.

Senior Linda Conrad begins to color Skip Kuker's hair for the play, "Our Town."

Raggedy Ann and Andy (Amy Jellison and Margie Hyde) smile for the camera at the Halloween dance.

Head custodian Vivian Wilder takes a temperature reading in one of the B100 rooms during the afternoon.

Fire drills were routine for most of the year . . . when the real fire occurred. no students were in the school.

The tassel turns

We live within a circle of people, events, and activities during our four years of high school. At first, when we are freshmen, the circle is small. We are new to the student body. But freshmen quickly learn the "rules" of high school and adjust. Sophomores begin to participate in extra-curricular activities. They sell the candles to help pay for the prom and they seem to yell the loudest at pep sessions during the class cheers. The Junior class is an important one for grades. The PSAT is taken during that year. But the circle opens then too . . . the circle of events outside school. Most juniors have jobs to pay for their cars. By the beginning of the senior year, students have decided on a career or options after high school. And the circle continues to grow long after the tassel is turned on May 23.

To raise money for future events, the Junior class gathers for a class meeting to hear about candy sales.

Two parents stop Mr. Michael Bonahoom in the hall to ask a few questions on parent conference night.

Members of the powder-puff cheer leading squad pose for a picture afte the game.

As a TRACES sports writer, Rick Tomlinson interviewed the coaches to assure accurate copy.

While others act out the play, Laurie Elliott follows along in her own copy of "Hamlet".

Students return to the building after a fire drill. Harding has at least nine fire drills per year.

In the Village Woods addition, Fred Allen, Lisa Elliott, Carrie Berridge and Julie Torrez board the morning bus.

Freshman Mike Martin waits for the final few to board the bus for the ride home from school. Some riders were on the bus for 30 minutes.

Prepare for the bus

The first thing a freshman or new student at Harding learns about transportation to school is that he has to be "established" to ride the bus to school. He has to know what is going on.

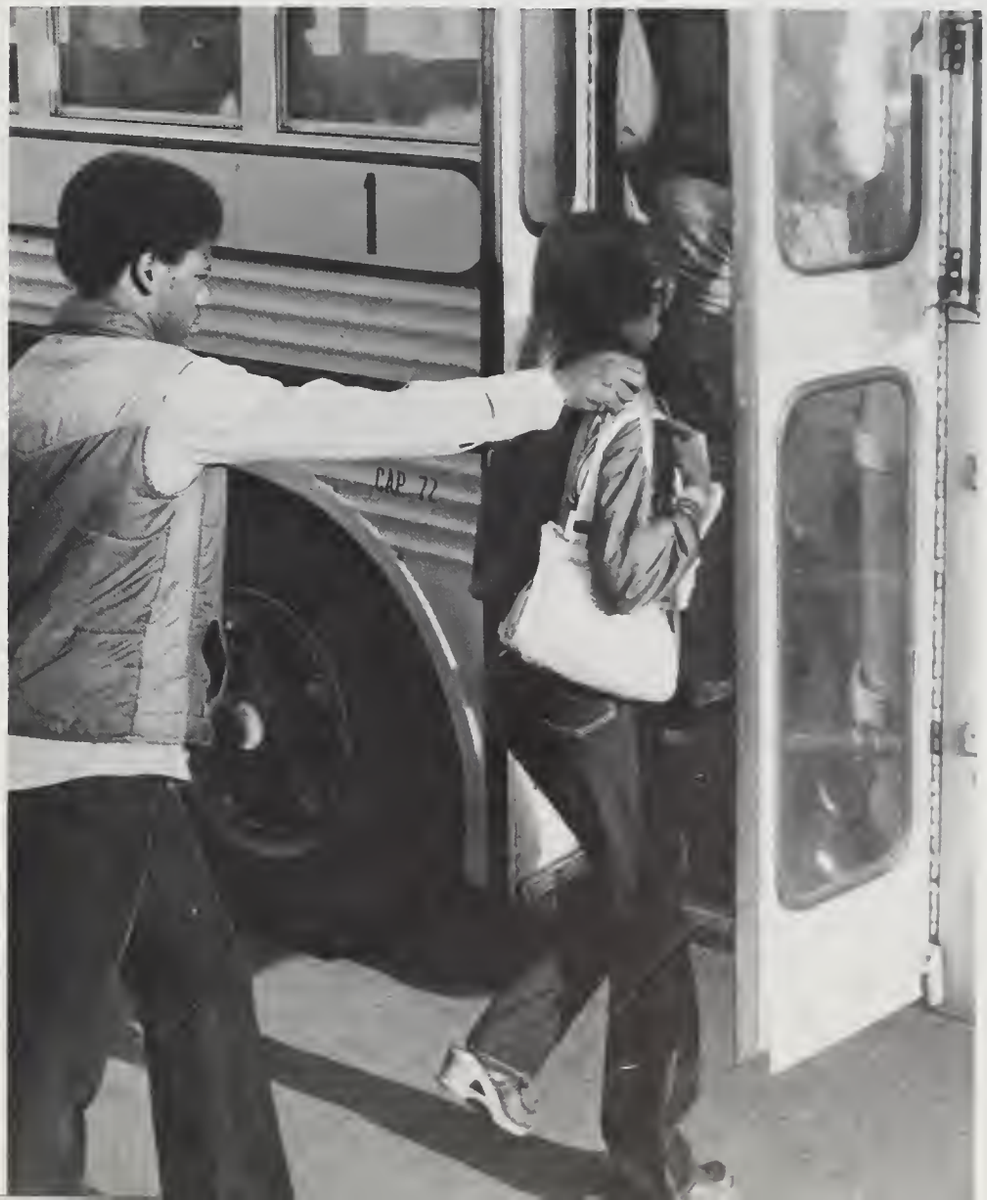
If the bus driver doesn't know your stop exists, you are in trouble. A 250-pound Pittsburgh Steeler tackle standing in the middle of the street could not stop the determined driver.

Memorize, down to the second, when your bus is scheduled to arrive. If you are early, be prepared to freeze. If you are late, be prepared to run after the bus or have your mother call you in sick.

Be careful choosing a seat once you get on the bus. If you choose to sit by a window, every sharp left turn will cause your face to compress against the window causing you to look like a paralyzed gold fish. If you sit on the end of the seat. an occasional push onto the floor is to be expected. Sitting in the middle of the seat is the least hazardous place. Sitting in the middle also assures extra padding for those bumps, potholes, and curbs that bus drivers always seem to hit.

One last warning. In sub-zero weather, do not jump the last step when getting off the bus. This act could result in an embarrassing slip of the foot and a break of the tailbone.

Lots of homework was in store for junior Julie Henkel, who boarded the big yellow school bus for the ride home.



It was nice to stand out and wait for the bus in the spring. Mike Martin and Debby Selking board Bus # 1 for Harding.

The art of chow

Pig Out (pig out) v. 1. to "chow down" on a 15" deep-dish Sicilian pizza, alone. 2. to devour an entire plate of hot barbecued ribs (half reaching the mouth, the rest on the lap). 3. to eat three Big Macs, two orders of french fries and a shake; all these items to be eaten in one lunch mod. 4. to consume five pounds of jelly beans in one school day. 5. to inhale a type "A," three milks, and an apple pie (eaten daily by none other than the skinniest girl in the school). 6. to eat an egg salad on rye (plugging the nose simultaneously) smashed potato chips and saran-wrapped stir-n-frost cake . . . all neatly packaged by mother in that familiar brown bag. 7. to attempt to eat the "generous" helping of Monday's macaroni-n-cheese on Friday. 8. to buy one plate lunch in the line and then eat whatever is left over on everyone else's tray before the bell rings . . . and getting sick.

During one of the three lunch mods, Faith Nevius, Jody Steele and Linda Nanchoff eat together.

Junior Mike Dixon makes a last-minute decision between the ala carte and the normal plate lunch while waiting in line.

Brad Neumann hurries to finish the last spoonful of applesauce before returning to his afternoon class.

Jim White, Ned Flynt and Tony Smith grab a carton of milk at the end of the line before paying for their lunch.

During mod 7 lunch, Scott Morris and Sue Sanders share the honors of opening a can of Mountain Dew.

High school eating etiquette is displayed by Raj Bhargava, Ron Linehan and Steve Wells. Sometimes it was messy.

As the girls in the powder-puff football game play, band members sit under the bleachers to keep warm . . . and dry.

Red and white was the pajama color scheme Connie McClure chose to wear on "Pajama Day" to celebrate Homecoming week.

The top of the ledge in the Commons is not too comfortable, but Mary Woodhull didn't care on "Stuffed Animal Day".

Wearin' the hat

Traditionally, Homecoming week at Harding High school is excitement wrapped with football spirit.

Special events take place each day of the week. The style for the day is chosen by the individual classes.

To start the week off, the Freshman class sponsored "Crazy Hat and Sock Day." To show off their striped, fuzzy, or argyle socks, students rolled up their jeans or wore a cheerleading skirt. Hats ranged from Janet Butler's Razorback hog hat to a Cincinnati Reds baseball hat.

Tuesday, sponsored by the Sophomore class was known as "Super Jock Day." There were ranges of styles that day. Paul McCord and Tom Mattix wore jock straps, knee pads, wrestling helmets, elbow pads, a bowling glove and spiked shoes. There was even someone there with a Cincinnati Reds baseball hat on.

Then came "Blues Brothers Day" held by the Junior class. Black pin striped suits, black felt hats, starched white shirts and sun glasses were part of the wardrobes worn on the day. One rugged individual went all the way and wore his Cincinnati Reds baseball hat!

Thursday, the Senior class sponsored a "Pajama Day Party" and asked students to come-as-you-are. The turn-out was tremendous. Some students brought their stuffed animals and pillows. One fan even wore a Cincinnati Reds baseball hat.

The Senior class won the "Best Participation Award." Their class president shook hands with Mr. Michael Bonahoom, principal.

On Friday, the cheerleaders sponsored "Green and Gold Day." Students wore all shades of green and gold. Although he stood out, a brave student wore a red and white Cincinnati Reds baseball hat.

During Homecoming week, senior Paul McCord and junior Jamie Berg dress up like the Blues Brothers.

Star hang high in the hallways decorated for Homecoming. The Senior class won the award for the best hallway.

The crowning glory

It started with a parade.

Floats of all sizes, shapes and colors could be seen at the Harding Homecoming parade.

The band was the first group on the track marching in their parade formation.

As club floats started passing by, the excitement, anticipation and rowdiness grew. Choir won the club float competition by making a two-side float representing "Pippin" and "Bye Bye Birdie," two musicals presented at Harding.

The screaming volleyball players who crowded onto a pick-up truck won the "Rowdiest Float" award.

The seniors won the "Best Over-All" and "Best Class" float award.

The corvettes and the Homecoming court brought up the end of the parade.

Homecoming Queen Lori Elliott and her escort Rich Hayes glance at the staduim full of fans.

Lori Elliott hugs Mark Phelps after being crowned Homecoming Queen. Other court members look on from behind.

1979 Homecoming Queen Rhonda Fox, returned to crown Lori Elliott as the new queen for the 1980-81 school year.

Pom-pon members stand at attention as they watch the crowning of the queen. The girls performed "Walk Em Up" at the half.

The townspeople of Grover's Corners gather at the grave for Emily's funeral—where she joins the dead.

Make-up artist Linda Conrad prepares Lisa Herman for the stage.

"So, people a thousand years from now, this is how we were," says Skip Kuker, narrator of the play.

At the end of the second act, George and Emily kiss at the long awaited wedding.

The ability was there

With a cast of 24 members, "Our Town" became Harding's largest fall production.

"I was really surprised that everyone worked so well together. I was expecting more personality conflicts," stated Mrs. Jeannette Schmidt, director of the drama.

"Our Town" is a play about two main characters: George Gibbs and Emily Webb. George, played by Kent Meyer, and Emily, played by Lori Boller, fall in love and are married in their hometown of Grover's Corners. Many other characters show the town as it was in everyday life during that era.

"It is such a hard play to do. Characters must be interpreted just right by the actors for the proper meaning to come across," said Mrs. Schmidt.

The audience must also be interested in the play for it to be successful. The main meaning of the drama is not divulged until the last act. The first two acts must keep the audience's attention for that amount of time.

"I was so impressed with the ability that these people showed. They did a great job."

George (Kent Meyer) cries at the grave of Emily (Lori Boller) as she and Mrs. Gibbs (Tami Butler) discuss how little the living understand.

Book reports on Peter Rabbit were written by all actors. Schroeder (Kent Meyer) reads over his.

In celebration of the best time of the day, supper-time, the cast participates in a can-can dance.

Patty, played by Laurie Elliott and Snoopy, played by Tim Tuttle prepare to chase rabbits.

To hide his embarrassment, Charlie Brown (Ron Linehan) covers his head with a paper bag.

Happiness is . . .

The Peanuts gang admitted to it in the beginning. Lucy confessed it in the end. "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown."

The spring musical was based on the comic strip "Peanuts" by Charles M. Schulz. This production, unlike any other in Harding history, lacked a plot. This play had only a theme. The theme was the world as seen through the eyes of children. The two-act play was made up of comic strip skits. Most of the lines were delivered directly to the audience to create the illusion of looking at a moving page.

The 25 member cast took part in three major production numbers. Because the play was originally written for six, the production numbers had to be created and the dance steps had to be put in.

For the final scene, the entire cast came on stage to sing "Happiness."

An exciting opening song began the performance of "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown."

While concentrating on Beethoven, Schroeder (Kent Meyer) is pestered by Lucy (Michelle Tegtmeyer).

Patty (Laurie Elliott) and Linus (Rich Hayes) discuss life though the eyes of children.

Couples slow dance to the music of "End Game," a group from Fort Wayne. This year the prom was held at the local IU-PU campus.

Smiles were everywhere Prom night. Ron Bunt and Janet Butler were voted as the Junior Prom King and Queen.

Fountains and roses

Streamers of blue and silver, an elegant glass water fountain, and tables decorated with red roses graced the IU-PU Student Union Building for the annual Junior-Senior Prom.

Upper-class students and their dates enjoyed the traditional fruit punch and white cake while listening to "End Game," a four-piece band. The group took the dancers back into the swing era, through the dawn to rock, and under a mystical "moon" with romantic melodies such as "Precious and Few," the Prom theme.

Duane Miller and Laurie Elliott were crowned the senior King and Queen by Mrs. Michael Bonahoom. Juniors Ron Bunt and Janet Butler were crowned the junior King and Queen.

The evening continued at Meyer's Barn with a hot dog roast and a bonfire and hayride.

The Senior Prom King (Duane Miller) and Queen (Laurie Elliott) dance to music at the Prom.

After the Prom, couples went to Meyer's Barn for the after-prom activities. The Prom theme this year was "Precious and Few."

Couples attending the Prom stopped in the lounge for a few moments of visiting. Some couples also had their pictures taken.

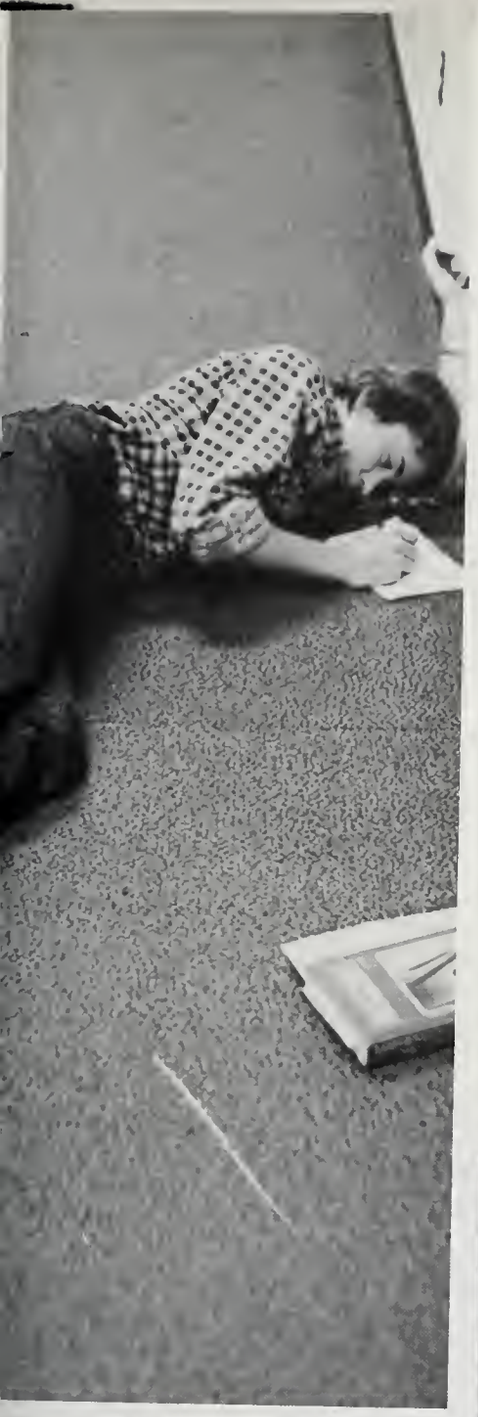
Junior Kathy McMillen and her escort Steve Smith dance to the music provided by "End Game" before the crowning of the King and Queen.

Between classes, Jim Michael writes up th band story for the yearbook. Staff member interviewed for each story.

There is no better place to sit than on the ledg in the Commons. Lisa Perkins and Laura Scaten talk to friends on Friday.

Friday's seem to bring on sleep quicker than other days. Michelle Heck closes her eyes for a Friday breather.

Study hall is a time for Mikki Tomlinson and Bill Johnson to complete homework. Study halls were held in the Commons this year.



The alarm goes off

6:50—alarm clock rings, causing the unconscious person to toss it across a darkened room.
6:57—reluctant student climbs from bed, placing foot directly on the spike of a belt buckle.
7:04—student closes eyes and selects the day's wardrobe.
7:06—student takes sock mistakenly put on ear and places it somewhere near foot.
7:10—student dines on a hearty breakfast (today it is last night's pizza and lukewarm cup of coffee).
7:12—student awakens enough to find he has put his sock on his left hand.
7:15—student reads obituaries to see if he is alive. Finding he is, he proceeds to read Ann Landers.
7:20—student bids parents farewell.
7:20½—student's mother tells him to take a bath before leaving.
7:21—student enters bathroom, turns on bath water, and slips out back door.
7:23—student wipes dew off car windows.
7:24—student climbs into car, cranks on radio, turns on lights, and finally remembers to turn on ignition.
7:30—after arriving in downtown Cleveland, student pulls out road map.
7:40—student risks life and limb parking in Harding parking lot.
7:41—after dropping each book twice, student walks up to school to find out which window is a door.
7:43—student goes into restroom to comb hair and finds sock hugging his nose.
7:45—someone beckons student as he stumbles down hallway, causing a stop for talking.
7:55— student has established his name as well as that of the student he has been talking to for 10 minutes.
8:00—through half-opened eyes, student is mildly startled to see his first period teacher wearing a sock in his hair and a tie around his waist.

This little bear celebrated the fact that "It's Friday". His picture was found on the front of many student notebooks.

When yearboks came out in the fall, students signed them. Some wrote "Good Luck" and others wrote a full page.

At the annual Honors Breakfast, held in early May, Damian Maggos was awarded the ITT Science Award.

All seniors in the Honor Society received gold cords. Principal Michael Bonahoom gives Beverly Armour her gold cords.

Every year Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sauer present the Robert Sauer Award. The 1981 winner of the award was Mike Bergman.

Students honored

On May 6, 1981, honor students and their parents gathered for the annual Honors Breakfast.

A breakfast of rolls, juice and coffee was served by the Honor Society sponsors and paraprofessionals before Beverly Armour delivered the opening invocation.

Michael J. Bonahoom, principal, began the event with the introduction of Mrs. Evelyn Phillips, head sponsor. After addressing the group, Mrs. Phillips introduced the Rev. Ted Blosser of the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church. He spoke on the importance of gaining good life experiences.

Mr. John Mader presented all the awards during the morning ceremony.

The highest honors went to Amy Fogelstrom, salutatorian, and Terri Davis, valedictorian.

The DAR Award is an annual award presented at e Honors Breakfast. The 1981 DAR Award went Ginger Clayton.

Every year the Foreign Language teachers present the Foreign Language Award. This year the winner was Paul McCord.

Tim Funk won both the Sertoma Award (athletics and academics) and the Rotarian Award (speech) at the Honors Breakfast.

Parents join honor students for special breakfast

The 1981 Honors Breakfast was held on May 6.

Junior and senior honor students and their parents met for a breakfast of orange juice, rolls and coffee before the presentation of awards.

Mrs. Evelyn Phillips, Honor Society sponsor, introduced the Rev. Ted Blosser of the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church. Rev. Blosser stressed the need for young people to seek different life experiences.

Mr. John Mader, guidance, presented the junior and senior Honor Society students with pins.

Terri Davis was named the valedictorian of the class and Amy Fogelstrom was named the salutatorian of the class. Tri-Kappa winners were Judy Kostoff, Margie Hyde and Vasilika Toskos.

Mr. Michael Bonahoom, principal, presented each senior Honor Society student with a set of gold cords to wear at graduation.

Tim Funk was awarded both the Sertoma and the Rotarian awards. Damian Maggos won the ITT Science Award and Paul McCord won the Foreign Language Award. Ginger Clayton won the DAR Award and Lisa Herman won the Kiwanis Club Good Citizen Award.

Mrs. Phillips ended the morning by congratulating all honor students and their parents.

As all the tassels turn

As over 3,000 family members and friends watched, the Class of '81 turned the tassels and officially graduated.

Graduation ceremonies were held in the Harding gym at 3:30 p.m. on Saturday, May 23.

After an invocation and a presentation by the Harding band and choirs, Terri Davis, valedictorian, and Amy Fogelstrom, salutatorian, gave their final speeches to the class.

Mr. Michael Bonahoom, principal, presented the Class of '81 and Dr. Daryl Yost, superintendent, accepted the Class of '81. Mr. David Lutz and Mrs. Evelyn Phillips called each member of the graduating class up to the center stage to receive a diploma.

Faculty members seated at the end of each row led the Class of '81 out of the gym . . . and into a new beginning.

An estimated crowd of 3,000 friends and relatives watch along with the Class of '81 as Terri Davis, valedictorian, makes her speech.

As Mr. David Lutz announces the names of the graduating class, Brenda Gallbraith receives a diploma from David Sharp.

Senior Melissa Ayers waits patiently for her name to be called at the graduation ceremonies held in the gym at Harding.

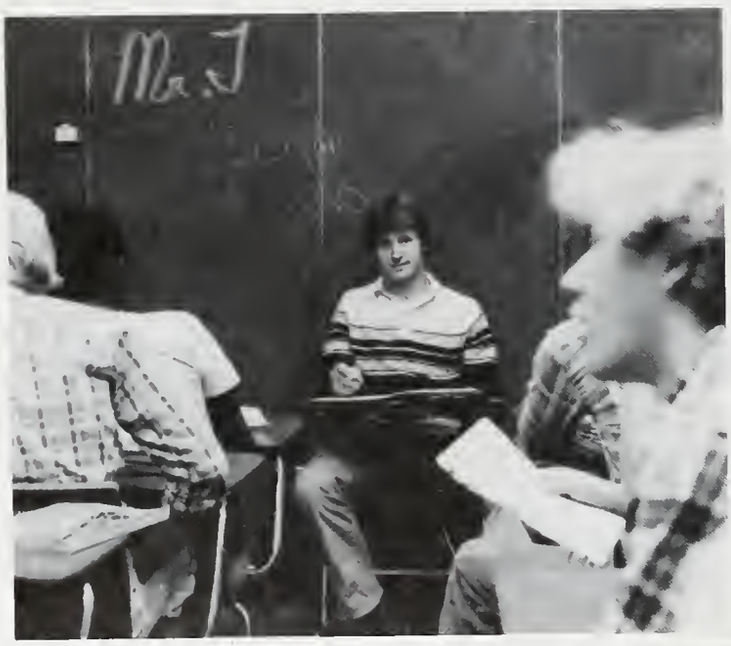
Sertoma Award winner Tim Funk receives his diploma from Mary Barksdale as Jerome Gerke watches.

Harding graduates listen to the various speeches customary to graduation. For the seniors, graduation was a time of mixed emotions.

As he addresses the Class of '81, Mr. Michael Bonahoom is flanked by Dr. Daryl Yost, superintendent, and officers of the Senior class.

While taking attendance during homeroom, Mr. Hissong relaxes and listens to our morning announcements.

A normal day in Mr. Allen's Typing 1 & 2 class. Everyone works at their own pace.



During her daily activity period Chris Gomez cacthes up on some U. S. History homework.

Juniors Lee Underwood and Malcolm Folkes work together on an art project for Graphics Arts 1.

Academics

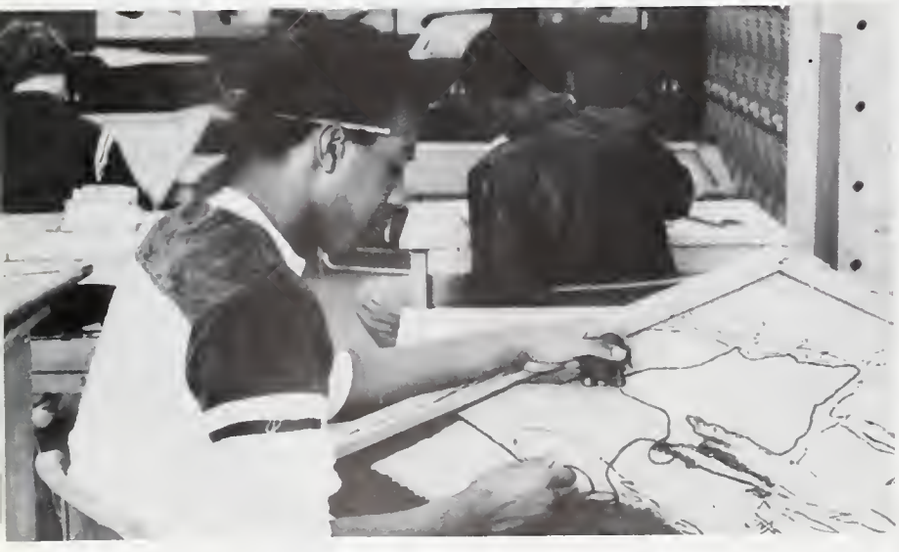
In kindergarten, the circle of public education began. At Harding, the circle comes to a close. The three major subjects, science, math and English, are the inner core. Many different subjects branch off on the fringes. It's the student who takes that extra step beyond the circle who gets the extra out of every class he attends. From chapter to chapter, play to play, all classes change each and every day. From the sounds of the air file in auto mechanics to the ticking of typewriters in the business lab, the school is always busy. Academics, building the ladder to a job or to higher education, lies . . .

On the fringe

Art

With marker in hand, sophomore Kathy Leonard adds to her rug design.

Art 5-6 student Joey King finishes combining ingredients for his pottery mold.



The first project of the second semester that Mark Brown worked on was a rug.

First year art students Billy Moore and Kathy Leonard make designs for their rugs.

Art student Tom Niblick pencils in the final design on his mountain scene sketch.

Students spent several hours making rugs. Paula Worley begins using a rug hook.

Business

Exercises in typing class require coordination and concentration.

Basic timed assignments were given to those taking Typing 1-2.

Before Shelly Sumpter turns in her work, Mrs. Joyce Goodin has to check it.

Sophomore Mike Jordan keeps his eyes on the copy while he types.

Students practice on adding machines and calculators in business machines class.

Junior Gayle Topp listens to a Business Law lecture given by Mr. Rider.

English

TRACES staff member Mark Jones was the first to inspect the 1980 yearbook when it arrived.

Juniors Margie Hyde and Vickki Barksdale work together on an English assignment.

In the English Literature class production of "Hamlet", Larry Lipps played Rosencrantz.

Students wait for Jane White to pass out a test in Communication Skills A.

The costume added authenticity to the part Paul McCord played in "Hamlet".

Home Arts

After preparing a meal in Foods class, junior Dawn Morris cleans up the table top.

Sophomore Todd Fowler shows of the pie he made in class.

Sophomore Stephanie Jenkins eats the dinner she made in Foods class.

Students in Mrs. Colderbank's class view a film on making garnishes for a main dish.

Industrial Arts

For a few moments, Russell Ferdon and Jerome Gerke work on the hydraulic cutter.

Mark Bergman uses class time to work on a drafting project for Mr. DuPont.

Sometime during the year, all graphic arts students learn how to run the press. Scott Guest uses the press during his 12-13 class.

Second-year Woodworking 2 student Tim Anger constructs pieces for a wooden puzzle. The project will be used at Southwick.

Students in Woodworking 2 must complete an upholstery project. Joe Chandler and Ray Diedrich drill holes in the legs of stools.

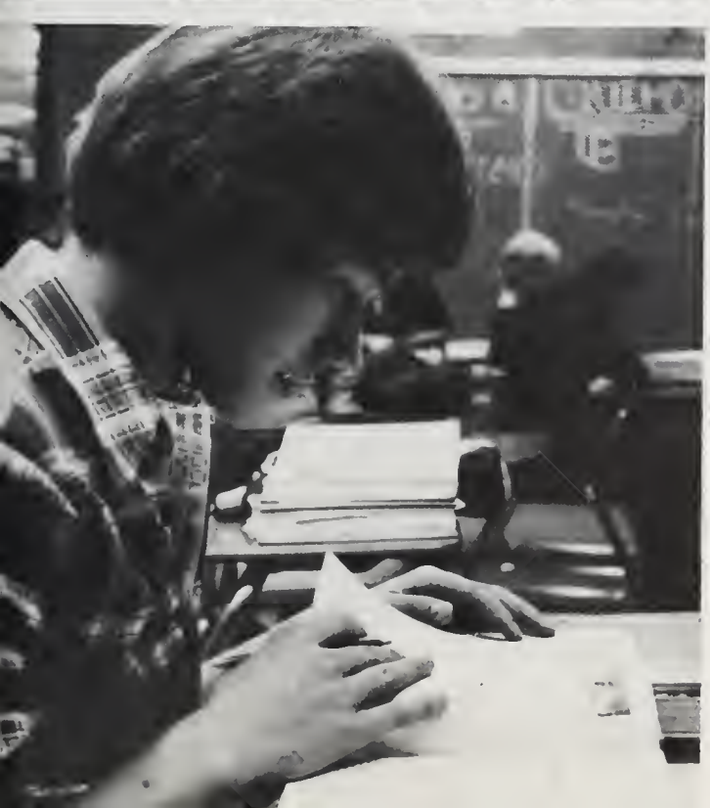
Languages

A Spanish game in Mrs. Buckmaster's class was a race for Debbie Thomas and Craig Baker.

With the help of a dictionary Marvin Plettner, Janet Spiker and Tami DeGood learn word meanings.

All students taking Spanish make churros. Mindy Rogers stirs the chocolate.

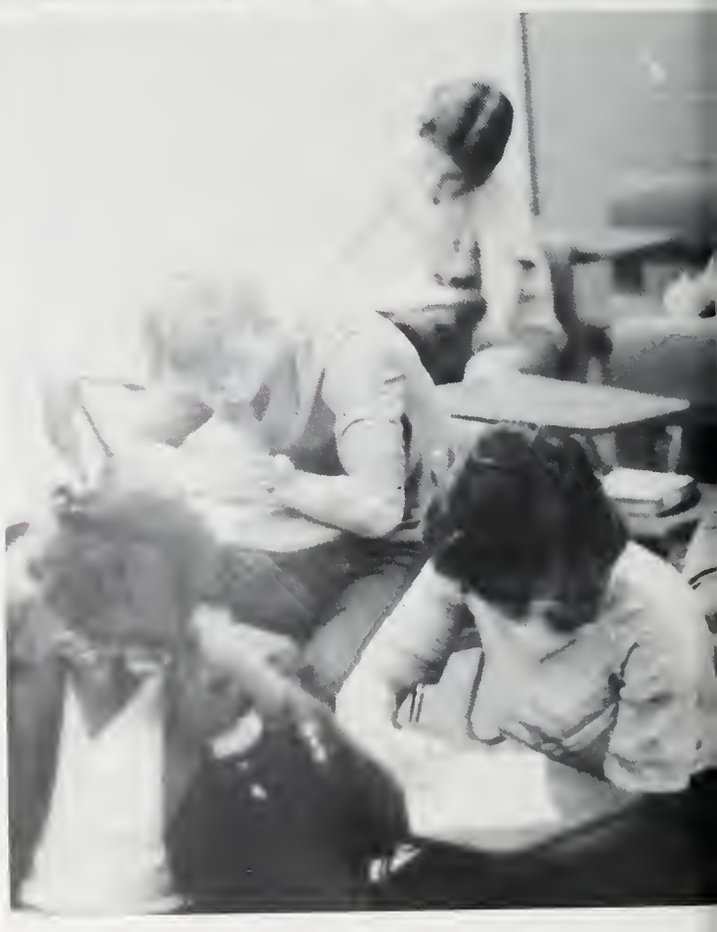
Spanish teacher Maria Buckmaster grades tests and assignments turned in by students.



Reading and re-reading are the keys to learning a language as David Booker knows.

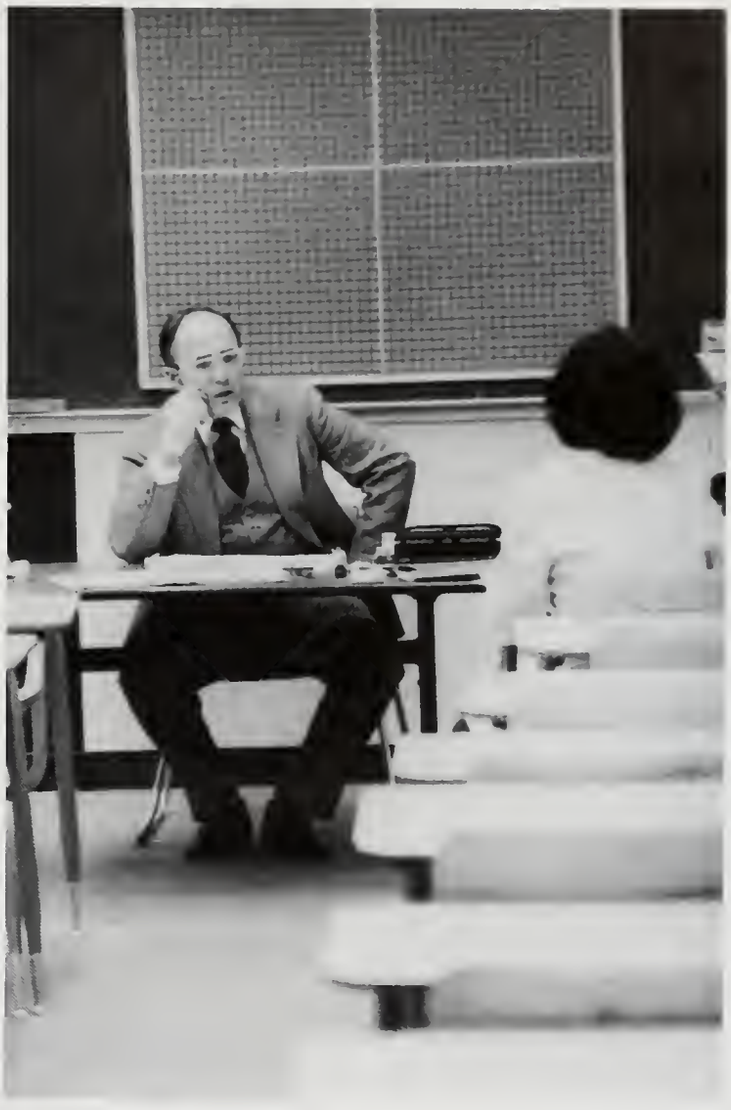
Joy Bostic samples dishes made by students taking French 1-2.

Math



Mr. Mike Ehinger helps two students with an algebra problem.

To get extra help Deb Waidelich and Dawn Davy consult Mr. Ehinger.



Math teacher Everett Sauders discusses students progress on parents' night.

Math students begin work on one of many tests given during the year.

Science

In Genetics, Lee Underwood, a junior counts his fruit flies.

Freshman Rich Kline prepares to view a slide in the lab during Academic Biology.

In Academic Biology, Mr. Weidemeier helps David Biberstine on an assignment.

During mods 12-13, senior Mark Wiederholt listens to a first-year chemistry tape.

Students used the lab for many experiments and assignments during the school year.

With the aid of a microscope, Dave Biberstine views a slide.

Social Studies

Marketing games take concentration. John Melgard works on his game.

It was not always easy to concentrate in B100 as Karen Miller and Michelle Lambert know.

Economics student Mike Bergman plays a marketing game in Mr. Aurand's class.

With Mr. Gene Aurand's help, Ron Linehan arranges an Economics project.

Seniors in Mr. Aurand's class learned how to deal with big business and money.

With Mr. Aurand's help, Mark Densel learns how to play an economics game.

Award winners Small but mighty

The band put in over 120 hours of practice during the month of July in preparation for their Indiana State Fair show.

On July 20, the band went to Tri-State University for a week to learn and complete the show. On August 20, they competed at the Indiana State Fair and received an honorable 18th place. "I think we had twice the show as last year, but the competition was tighter," said Mr. Thom Snider, band director.

When school started, the marching band began to prepare for NISBOVA contest. They presented their show on October 4 and received a second place rating. "I was not unhappy with the state fair rating, but the NISBOVA rating was upsetting," said Mr. Snider.

This year, the band bought new uniforms with the money the band raised from various projects. Because the band parents made the uniforms, the cost was $1,200. If purchased, they could have cost $8,000.

"Our band went to a corp style performance, so it would look ridiculous to do corp maneuvering in our old uniforms," said Mr. Snider.

The band is noticeably smaller this year since only 13 freshmen joined. "The band may be small, but we still have quality," said Mr. Snider.

Band members stand at parade rest during one of their many practices.

The Hawk flag and rifle corp performs at the Harding-Woodland football game.

Band director Thom Snider uses an amplifier so everyone can hear the orders.

During a summer morning practice, a sousaphone was abandoned by its player for a 10-minute break.

During the Homecoming performance, Jeremy Ford plays "Night on Bald Mountain."

Band recruits

Before school started, members of the band were practicing for State Fair contest. As a result, they brought home an 18th place.

Between rehearsals and concerts, the band has been touring Village Woods to promote a larger band.

"Although the band is smaller this year, our individual abilities are as good as they have ever been" said Thom Snider, band director.

After the Christmas Concert given with the choirs, the band members immediately began to prepare for the annual NISBOVA contest held at Huntington North High School. The band brought back a 3rd place. "Our NISBOVA rating was disappointing, but our band greatly improved during the season."

Swing Band member Doug Ohnesorge practices guitar for "Charlie Brown."

During a free moment in the band room Scott Morris and Susie Sanders relax.

The band director from Village Woods helped direct the band last summer during practices.

Band director Thom Snider checks notes drawn by Ty Vance and Terri Hughes.

Before she played her study for a grade, Lisa Johnson practiced the flute.

After school, Matt Kindy practices a piece for the piano. Matt was in the band for two years.

With a song

To an outsider, the choir is just a group of students who sing. But really, choir is made up of students who enjoy performing for others.

At NISBOVA, the Madrigal choir won a first place. The Acappella choir won a second place, and the Concert choir won a third place.

Traditionally the choirs perform at the Epworth Methodist Church in the fall. During the year they host the Dickens Dinner, perform at the Christmas Concert, give a Spring Concert and sing at the graduation ceremonies.

In addition to performing, members of the choirs must sing two songs for Mrs. Nelson as individuals or members of a group to get a nine weeks grade.

Choir members harmonize for a song during a part of the Dickens Dinner.

A day in Choir meant an hour of practice for a concert or contest.

Mrs. Sue Nelson accompanies the Acappella Choir as they practice for NISBOVA.

Choir members share music as they practice for the upcoming Christmas concert.

Sports

From the starting gun of cross-country to the final out in baseball, Harding athletes represented the Hawks well. Whether a team won regional honors or suffered a win-loss season, each team member worked to achieve success. The long hours of practice paid off when reaching for the extra effort to make it . . .

Gridders play tough schedule

When only about 15 people turned out for summer agility drills, it didn't diminish the Harding pre-season football hopes.

There were 21 lettermen returning from last year's squad, but some players quit during the season and others suffered injuries. Roughly 40 young men strapped on the familiar green and gold during the season. Some played both offense and defense.

The Hawks struggled through a winless season, going 0-6 in the SAC and 0-9 overall. "We had a tough schedule. The only team we played that could be considered a little weak was Heritage," explained first-year coach Ron Stanski.

The gridders lined up against five state-ranked teams this year, but Coach Stanski didn't want to make the schedule an excuse. "We weren't as good, talent-wise, as some of the teams we played, but then again, we were as good as some others," he added. "Our goal was to see improvement each game and to get 100% from everyone and not give up."

At the end of the season, Mark Weiderholt was named "Most Valuable Player." Tim Tuttle was the best offensive lineman and Ron Bunt and Errol Abernathy shared the best offensive back honors while James Lee was selected as the best defensive back.

The captains of the team this year were Mark Wiederholt, Tom Vachon and Craig Cayot.

Coaches build team power

The Hawk Junior Varsity team finished the season with an 0-8 record.

"We felt confident before the season. We worked on the basics, but we lacked team work time because we worked more with the Varsity team." said Craig Hissong, coach.

Varsity coach Ron Stanski was eager to get younger players on the varsity level for the experience. The Reserve team began the year with roughly 20 players, but as a result of varsity mishaps and injuries, roughly a dozen Junior Varsity team players were left at the end of the season.

The Freshman team completed the season with a 1-6 slate. The season was highlighted with a convincing 40-0 thrashing of Heritage. The team also lost close one-point contests to Wayne and New Haven.

Quarterback Bruce Stephens was named the "Most Valuable Player."

During the 1981 football season, the Varsity team coaches plan to work with the freshmen and sophomores to make the lower levels of football more competitive.

Hawks place in regionals

Led by only four seniors, the Harding Cross-Country team fared well during the regular season, posting a 10-3 mark.

The team ran well in the sectionals, placing third. They qualified for the regional. The Hawks later placed sixth in the tough regional.

"It was very hard to get out of the regional. A tough team still might not have gotten out of the regional," said Coach Larry Yant.

No Hawk Harrier qualified for the All-SAC team. Scott Eberle, Steve Septer and Manuel Martinez all missed the team by one place.

Led by repeating state champion Kristi Walker, the girls team ran well in the state invitational. They placed 10th overall. Sophomores Cindy Alfeld, Nan Freeman, Kristi Walker, Susie Martinez and senior Linda Conrad all ran well at the state meet.

Manuel Martinez was named the "Most Valuable Runner." Mike Frazier was voted team captain.

Varsity cross-country runners lead the way at the start of the meet. The team ended their season with a 10-3 record.

Half-way through the race, Harding runners group together and kick it out. Doug Morris and Gayland Sroufe lead the others.

Manuel Martinez sprints ahead while running the Quixote Hills course in a meet against the Heritage Patriots.

The only time runners can rest is at the finish of the meet. Scott Eberle collapses at the end of a race and enjoys some sun.

Balanced team finishes 12-4

Led by senior John Melgard, Tim Funk, and Kent Meyer the Boys' Tennis team once again completed a fine season.

The team ended up 12-4 overall and 6-3 in the conference. The 6-3 conference record enabled them to pull out a third place finish behind Wayne and Concordia.

"We had a successful season, but it was a big disappointment that we didn't win the SAC," said Max Eichenauer, head coach. "Our only goal this year was the SAC. It was very balanced. We had good depth."

In the talent-rich Homestead Sectional the Hawks knocked off Huntington North and Columbia City before falling to eventual state finalist Homestead.

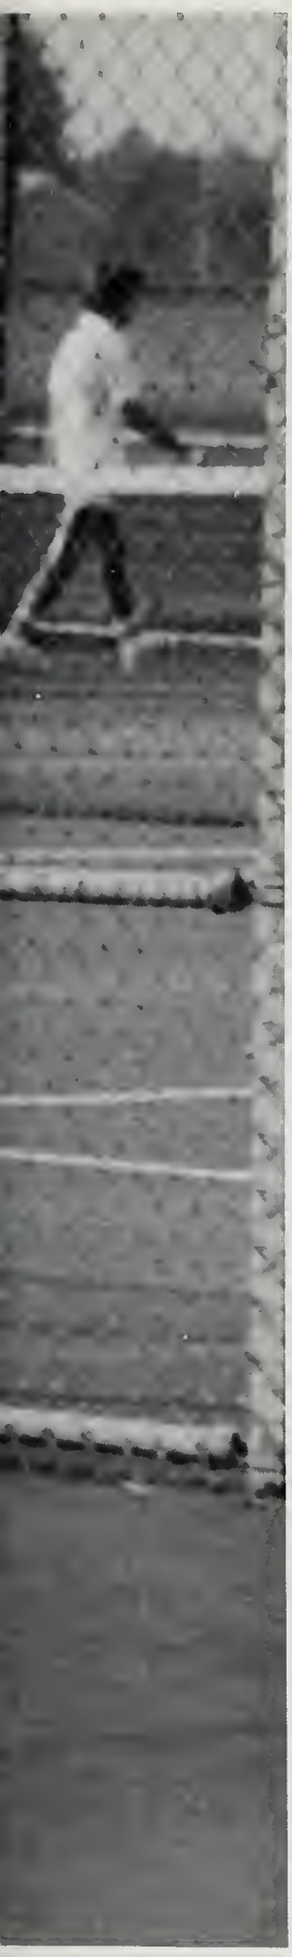
"I'm a realistic coach. Going into the sectional, I didn't think we could survive. We had a good team, but it was not as good as Homestead," explained Coach Eichenauer.

John Melgard, who finished with a fine 14-1 record, was named "Most Valuable Player" and Kent Meyer was named team captain.

The Reserve Boys' Tennis team used a balanced attack to finish with a 10-3 slate. A three-year record of 25 wins in a row was broken this year against Concordia.

"I'm hoping for a good .500 season next year," said Coach Eichenauer.

"Most Valuable Player" John Melgard finished with a 14-1 record. On the Harding court, John prepares to serve.



Varsity team member Tim Funk follows through after a smashing serve. Tim finished the year with an 11-4 record.

NIVC won by team

For the fourth year in a row, the Harding Boys' Volleyball season ended in the final match of the state tournament. But this year, it was different. Instead of winning that final match, the Hawks were up ended by a tall Westville squad.

After losing the first match of the season to the Leo Lions in five games, the Hawks ran off a string of 17 victories in a row. Led by "Most Valuable Player" Rich Hayes, the team captured their third straight Northeastern Indiana Volleyball Conference title with an 8-0 record.

The team also won the post-season NEIVC tournament, shutting out Heritage (2-0) in the championship match.

"We had a successful season, but I'm disappointed that we didn't win state," said Arnie Ball, head coach.

"Next year we won't be strong number-wise, but we'll be strong talent-wise," said Coach Ball.

Enjoying the action from the bench during the action of a Harding volleyball game are Damian Maggos, Terry Robertson and Chris McMurray.

Lady Hawks win SAC

After winning the Harding Invitational, the Summit Athletic Conference and after being ranked number 7th in the state, what more could you ask of a girls' volleyball team? Well, many people thought that this year the team could be the one to win state. It just was not to be, though, as the girls lost to the Heritage Patriots in a rough final match in the Wayne sectional.

Using a system in which every girl plays, the Lady Hawks captured their second SAC crown with some strong team play.

Head Coach Arnie Ball explained that he played all the girls because "I think that it helps them become closer as a team."

The girls finished with a 22-3 record overall and an 8-1 conference mark.

Drenda Roberts and Debbie Litchfield were "Most Valuable Players". They also made the All-SAC along with Laura Pierson.

"We will lose a lot of people to graduation this year, but I predict the team next year will be just as good, or better," said Coach Ball.

It was a successful season for the Lady Hawks volleyball team. All-SAC team members Laura Pierson and Chris Shearer wait for a serve.

MVP award given team

No one expected much from the 1981 basketball team, but then you never know with Hoosier Hysteria.

The year started off on an ominous note when the squad suffered a one-point loss at the hands of arch-rival New Haven. But the Hawks rebounded and went on to win the SAC title.

The big game of the year was against the fourth-ranked North Redskins. Using a tough zone press in the second half, the Hawks upset the Redskins and flew into the conference lead.

After advancing into the sectional final, the squad was upended by Concordia.

For the record, the Hawks were 8-1 in the SAC and 18-5 overall. The 18-5 mark is the best in Harding history.

Senior Steve Driver and junior Jeff McComb were both named to the All-SAC team, while juniors Jerome Lewis and Shawn Hicks received honorable mention.

Richie Hayes was selected team captain. The entire basketball team was selected "Most Valuable Player."

In the game against Woodlan, Steve Driver pulls down another of his record tying 240 rebounds. Jeff McComb looks on.

Surrounded by Archers and shooting over South's All-American John Flowers is Steve Driver. This action occurred at the SAC Holiday Tournament.

Throwing up his arm to stop a Redskin shot is sophomore Dennis Driver. Dennis also logged some time with the varsity squad in the 1980-81 season.

One of the few junior varsity players who dressed for the Sectionals was Shawn Harris. He jumps high for a baseline shot against Columbia City.

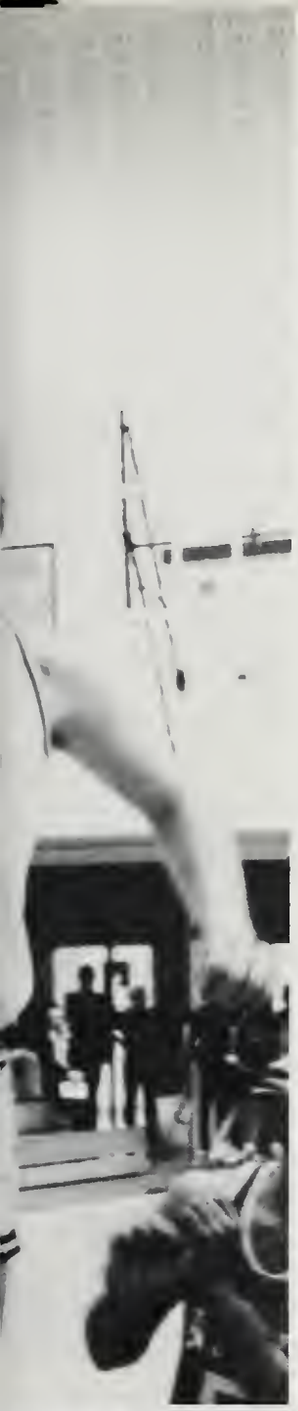
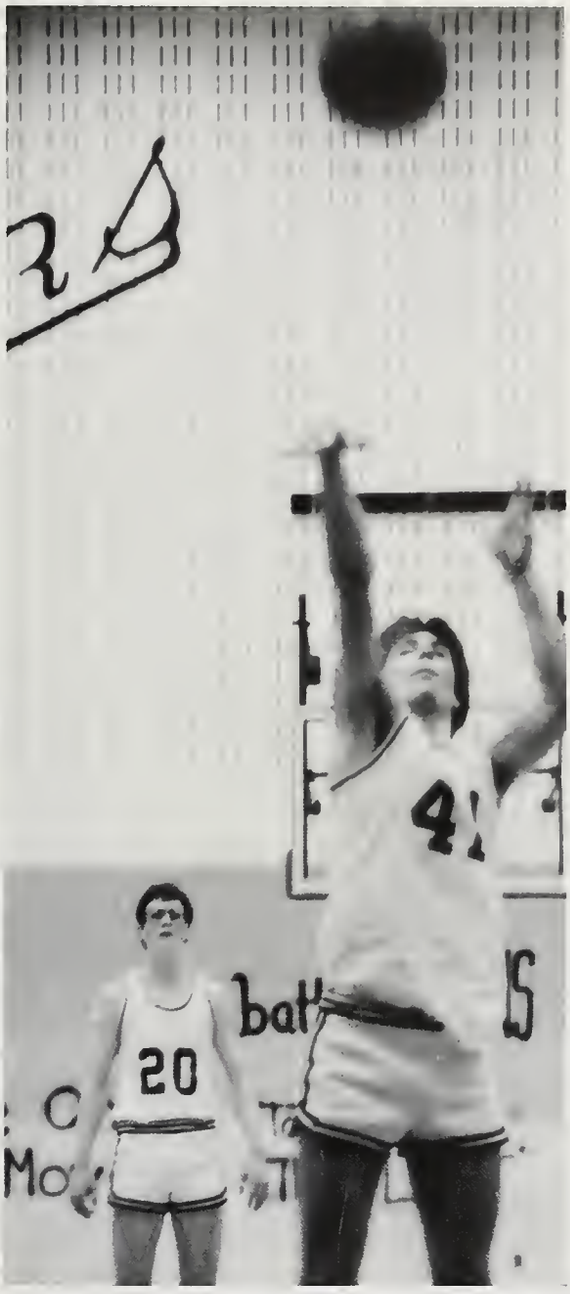
Against Columbia City, Shawn Harris drives a baseline and pulls up to pass off for an easy two. Matt Hillyard, left of picture, is open in the lane.





Team posts victories

The Junior Varsity Basketball team treated the Harding fans to an exciting season. The squad finished 14-6 overall and 7-2 against SAC opponents. Included in these 14 victories were some important milestones: the 100th reserve victory came at home against Bluffton; only the second all-sophomore team in school history tied for the best SAC record; the team won their last eight games to set a school junior varsity record.

"Fantastic season. Rarely does an all-sophomore team finish as well as we did, especially with the competition," said Coach Dan Shaw.

The squad was led by "Most Valuable Sophomores" Todd May and Terry Zeitlow and leading scorer Tracy Lee.

The Freshman Basketball team also posted an excellent season with a 14-3 season. According to Coach Denny Hockemeyer, the squads' goal at the beginning of the year was a 9-9 record.

Led by "Most Valuable Player" Bruce Stephens and leading rebounders Pete Clemens and Henry King, the squad posted some big victories over North, South and Wayne.

Following through the charity-stripe against Northrop is "Most Valuable Sophomore" Todd May. Terry Zeitlow, co MVP, waits in the back court.

Against North, Dennis Driver hauls in another rebound. Throughout the season, Denny used his height to great advantage to pull down rebounds.

Girls achieve their goal

All season long, the Girls' Basketball team had been shooting for a 10-win season. Led by second team all-SAC players Sheri McComb and Lucille Cole, the Lady Hawks accomplished the feat in the Sectionals with a victory over Elmhurst.

A season ending loss to Wayne the next night ended a fine 10-8 season. The Hawks finished 4-5 in the SAC.

"With only one senior, I thought that we did very well," stated Dolores Engebrecht, head coach. "I was very pleased that we met our goal of 10 wins."

Most Valuable Player" Lucille Cole led the team in scoring with a 12.3 average while captain Sheri McComb added 10.9 points per game.

Junior Carmen Davis was selected as the "Most Improved Player."

Since Sheri McComb is the only player graduating, there may be a sunny picture for the Lady Hawk future. The team finished sixth in the conference this year and should move up considerably with help from a fine reserve squad.

Under the leadership of Mr. Max Eichenauer, the Junior Varsity team tallied a 12-5 mark. They were led by guard Stephanie Jenkins and center Jenny Nimtz.

A determined Linda Gillman tries to get the ball. Senior Sheri McComb looks on waiting for the ball to come her way.

"Most Improved Player" Carmen Davis aggressively pulls down a rebound. Linda Gillman prepares to receive the ball.

Jumping high for the tip, freshman guard Lucille Cole tips it to a teammate. Lucille was the leading scorer for the team.

Team wins two titles

After finishing with a 4-4 SAC record and a 6-6 overall mark, the Hawks weren't expected to fare well in the Sectional competition.

Led by seniors Paul McCord and Tim Tuttle, the Harding Grapplers won both the Sectional and the Regional!

Nine members of the team advanced to the Regional. Out of those nine, five went on to Semi-State. Tim Tuttle was the only Hawk to advance to State. He placed sixth there.

The surprise of the year was sophomore Dave Osborn. Midway through the season, struggling with a 4-6 record, David dropped to the 98 pound weight class from the 105 pound class. From there he went on to win the Sectional and place second in the Regional.

Senior Paul McCord was named "Most Valuable Wrestler" while Tim Tuttle was voted "Most Outstanding Wrestler." Senior Duane Miller was selected captain of the team and David Osborn was named "Most Improved Wrestler."

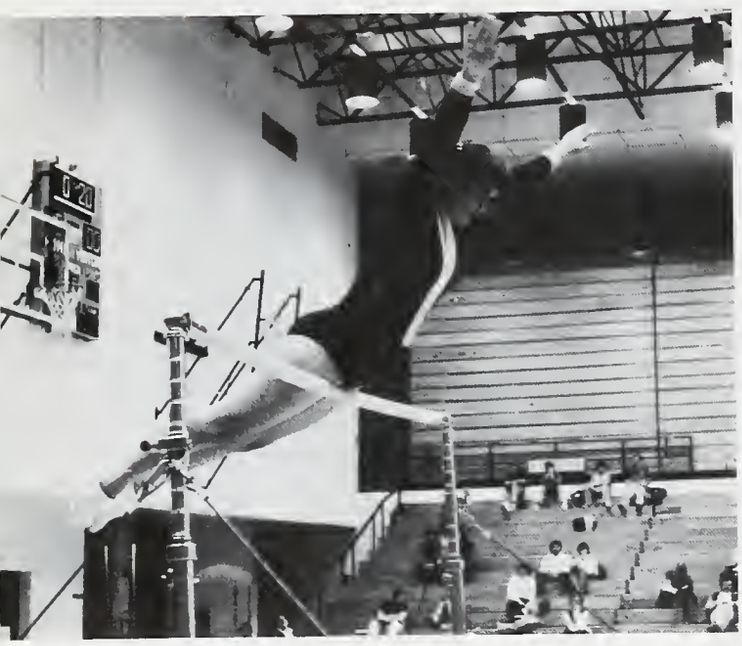
Craig Hissong, first year head coach, did an excellent job with the team.

After a hard-fought match against a Concordia wrestler, varsity wrestler Tony Scatena's arm was raised in victory by the referee.

With hands clasped, Ron Bunt, Varsity team wrestler gains a pin over his opponent, Don Stein. Don is on the Elmhurst wrestling team.

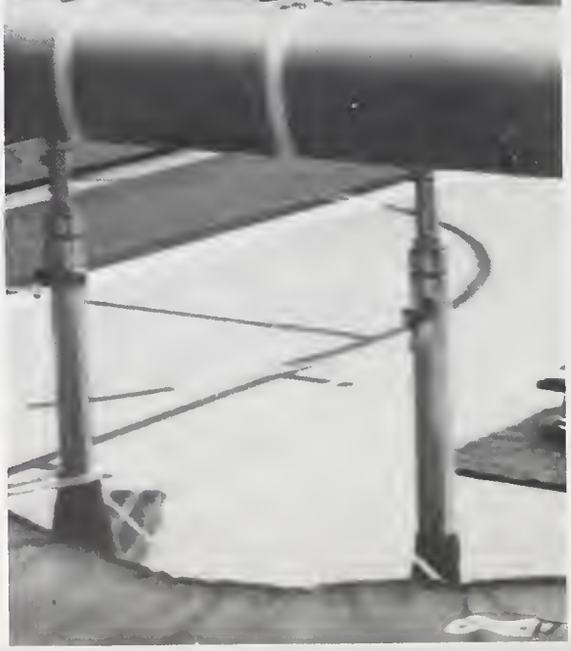
The final bout of the Harding-Concordia match was a struggle for varsity wrestler Tim Tuttle who is attempting to score a take-down on his opponent.

Senior Ginger Clayton pulls herself up and over the bar in an uneven bar routine. Ginger is the high scorer on the Girls' Gymnastics team.



Balancing carefully on the uneven bars, sophomore Kathleen Cowen prepares for a forward flip. Kathleen improved greatly by the end of the year.

After hitting the spring board squarely, senior Ginger Clayton vaults onto the mat. Ginger went to the Regionals after placing second in Sectionals.



Coach expects the best from gymnasts

At the beginning of the year, the Girls' Gymnastics coach didn't think that the lady Hawks could defend their Sectional title. "I'm not expecting great things from this group of young ladies, only their best," explained Dave Stebing.

After finishing 2-6 in the SAC and 7-9 overall, the team headed into the Bellmont Sectional. The team ran into a strong Wayne squad. The Hawks tied for second place with a surprising Norwell team.

Senior Ginger Clayton was named the "Most Valuable Gymnast" and team captain at the end of the year. She led the Hawks by placing second in those events and finishing as a runner-up in the all-around competition.

Freshman Kathy Steininger and sophomore Janet Lohman both advanced to state competition on the intermediate level this year.

Coach Stebing thinks that this team "will be very good because it will have had a chance to grow."

Team surprises

During what had to be called a rebuilding year, the Hawks did fairly well. They finished at about the half-way point in all of their big meets. They finished sixth in the SAC, seventh at the North relays, and eleventh in the sectionals.

Some pleasant surprises were Mark Wiederholt, senior, and Todd May, sophomore. Mark placed second at the sectional in the discus and Todd placed as the second best high jumper in the SAC.

The team finished 10-3 in dual meets. That pleased first-year head coach Mark Girgash.

"We were happy with our dual meet record, but we didn't meet our expectations in the big meets," he explained.

The season started off strongly, but the team faded late in the season. "We started declining about the time of the Wayne meet. Our best meet was with North, as far as dealing with the big competition. But after that, everyone just kind of passed us by," stated Coach Girgash.

Next year the Hawks will be strong in the middle distances, but the team is losing a lot to graduation.

Junior Linda Gillman successfully clears the bar during high jump practice. The girls practiced several nights a week after school for meets.

Sophomore Kristi Walker breaks the tape after running the 1600 meter in a new area best time. Kristi set the state record, under 5 minutes, in the SAC meet.

Girls to state

The 1981 Girls' Track team, one of the best squads in Harding history, sent four girls to state and placed third in a tough SAC race that featured three ranked teams.

The Lady Hawks earned honors that included a first place finish in the Homestead Relays, a fifth place Sectional finish and a 10-1 record overall.

The high point of the year occurred at a four-team meet at South. South, Northrop and Wayne were all ranked at the time, but the Hawks finished second to the Bruins.

"That was when the girls realized that they could win," explained first-year coach Jerry Amstutz. "They 've really matured."

The four girls that went to state were Drenda Roberts, Latosha Howard, Kristi Walker and Terri Young. Those four ran on the mile relay and Kristi also ran in the 1600 meter relay race.

After a great year this year, the future still looks bright. Only four seniors will be lost for next year.

During a 400 meter relay practice, sophomore Nancy Imel gets ready to receive the baton from senior Brenda Eberly.

Golfers gain experience

The Hawks Golf team, under Coach Duane Snyder, finished with a 4-25 record.

The team downed Elmhurst twice. The team downed Adams Central and Woodlan once. They also competed in several invitationals including Wayne, LaVille and the East Allen County School Invitational.

The Reserve team finished with an 0-6 record. The Junior Varisty team, with the exception of one junior, was an inexperienced squad composed of sophomores and juniors. This gives the Hawks a bright future when the Reserves gain experience.

The Varsity team, led by medalist Kent Meyer and "Most Valuable Senior" Dan Rippe, compiled a record of 2-16 in the SAC. Led by Dan Rippe's 82, the squad finished 14th in the Sectional against some staunch competition.

Next year, the team will have five players returning who saw varsity action in 1981.

On the practice green, Kent Meyer perfects his putting stroke. All golfers warmed up before the matches.

On the ninth hole, Terry Zeitlow drops his putt while junior Greg Dirrim holds the pin. Greg and Terry both played on the Varsity team.

On the 18th hole, Terry Zeitlow returns the favor and holds the pin while Greg Dirrim holes out in a practice at a local golf course.

From the back of the 10th tee, Dan Rippe follows through on his drive. Dan was the team medalist in the sectionals.

The only girl on the golf team, Chris White, addresses the ball before beginning the all-important swing. Golfers practiced swing technique often.

Junior Greg McDougal warms up with catcher Terry Robertson. Greg played a key role in the Hawks' late season success.

Senior Glenn Harkenrider successfully breaks up a double play against North.

Concentrating on his target, senior Tim Robertson winds up for the pitch.

Senior Glenn Harkenrider dives back to first to avoid a pick off play. Glenn was named All-SAC for the second time.

The Boys' Baseball team started off slowly, but came on fast in the end to complete a successful 17-6 season with an 11-3 win over fifth-ranked DeKalb.

The team finished second in the SAC to second-ranked Northrop with a 7-2 mark. The Bruins and the South Archers were the only city teams to defeat the Hawks.

Early in the season, the Hawks had trouble with the pitching staff. Senior Rich Klemke was his usual self—running his record to 7-0, but the #2 and #3 pitchers had trouble finding the groove. When Tim Robertson and Greg McDougal did come around, the Hawks finished the season with a 7-1 spurt. Greg's one-hitter against Norwell and Tim's victory over DeKalb are just one indication of their late season effectiveness.

The team went into the New Haven Sectional as the team to beat, but Wayne and Elmhurst were also in the field.

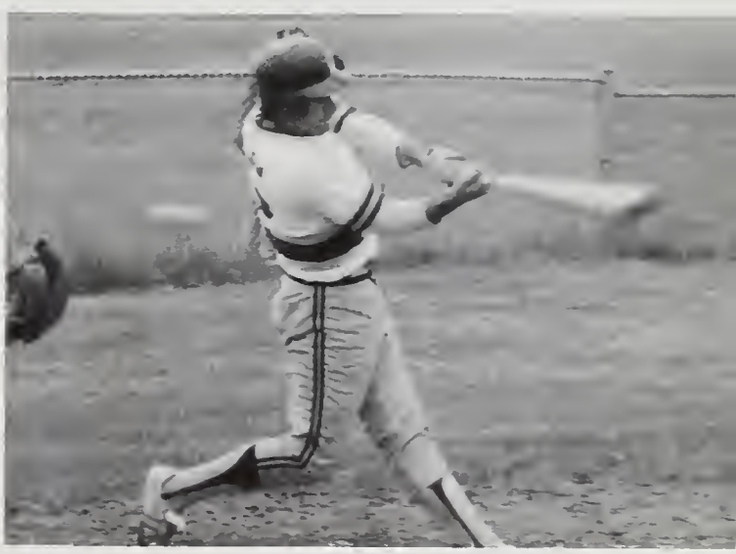
An honorable mention All-SAC pick, senior John Baldassari swings and misses this high fastball.



Coach Ron Stanski watches as the varsity team plays DeKalb. The team won 11-3.

"The players on the Girls' Tennis team played well as a team, but individual performances could have been better," said Coach Debby Wright.

The girls ended their season with a record of 5-8. The girls had a sectional record of 3-6 which caused them to take 6th in the SAC.

The "Most Valuable Player" award went to Lori Reed. Ronda Miller won the "Most Improved Player" award. Connie Chovan and Ann Reche were honorary co-captains. The best reserve record was earned by Emily Waters.

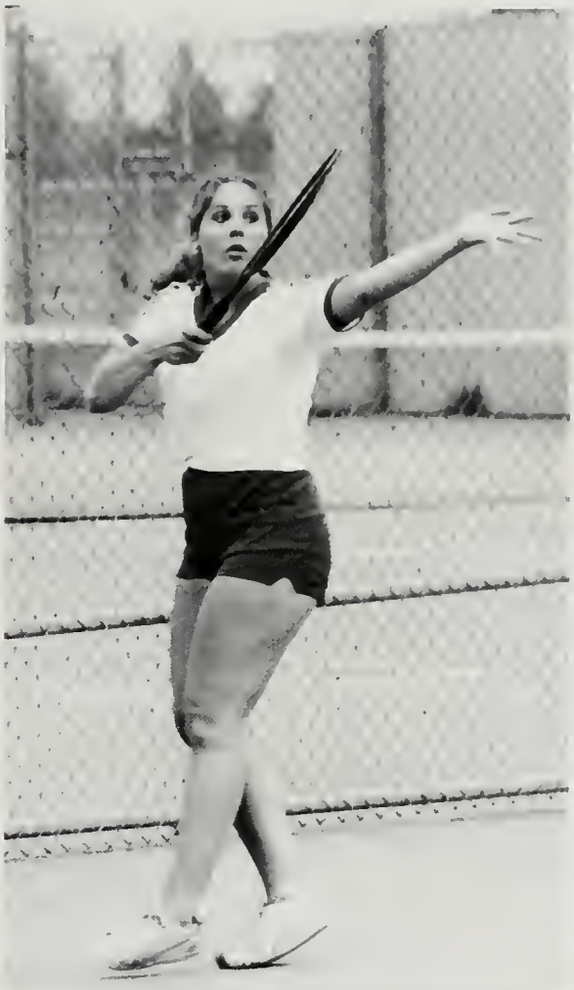
The 1981 letter winners were Connie Chovan, Marilyn Freeman, Michele Herbst, Mitzi Hibben, Nina Mangos, Ronda Miller, Kris Pape, Diana Patterson, Ann Reche, Lori Reed, Ginger Clayton.

Tennis coach Debbie Wright takes a break during a match to look at the photographer.

The doubles team of junior Diana Patterson and sophomore Nina Mangos heads into action.

Hitting a ground stroke back to her partner, junior Michele Herbst warms up prior to a match.

Team co-captain Connie Chovan follows through on a shot. Connie has been an asset to the team during her tenure at Harding.



Waiting for her opponent to serve, Ronda Miller concentrates on her return.

Girls' Tennis team: Row 1: Anita Alexander, Marilyn Freeman, Amy Hunter, Michele Herbst, Lisa Henley, Emily Waters, Lori Reed. Row 2: Ronda Miller, Diana Patterson, Ann Reche, Kris Pape, Amy Boger, Mitzi Hibben, Connie Chovan, Nina Mangos.

Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders won many awards this past year.

At a week-long cheerleading camp, the girls won six blue ribbons. They won one for each night. They also won a blue ribbon for a week-long evaluation. In addition, the girls won the Spirit Stick.

The Harding cheerleaders won first place at the Southtown Mall cheerleading competition. They competed against 15 other cheerleading groups in a 10-minute continuous movement routine.

Varsity Cheerleaders: Susie Wendling, Vickki Barksdale, Kelly Burtnett, Michelle Ingrum, Jana Mooney, Lori Reed.

At the Homecoming pep session members of the Senior class (Michelle Ingrum, Jana Mooney) sing a song based on "Another Brick on the Wall."

Even the cheerleaders had a mascot. Senior Lori Reed takes a few moments to play with mascot Stacy Litchfield.

During the Senior class skit, powder-puff cheerleader Paul McCord is hoisted high above other members of the class to shout out the class song.

At the request of Michael Bonahoom, principal, students do the cheer, "Two Bits." Juniors and seniors shout out the cheer.

Freshman Cheerleaders: Judy Baldassari, Alexia Kaplanis, Karen Cell, Cara Clark, Joell McNeal.

To celebrate Homecoming, members of the Senior class lined up to sing their version of the popular song, "Another Brick on the Wall."

Mark "push-up man" Girgash grins when a student caught talking in a class he was a substitute teacher for "gives him five."

Sophomores sit atop the ledge in the Commons waiting for the 7:55 bell to ring signaling the beginning of another school day.

"Stuffed Animal Day" was held during Homecoming week. Mary Woodhull gives her stuffed bear a hug on the ledge in the Commons.

At a pep session for the basketball team, Kelly Burtnett points out Coach Harlan Frick as the star of the team.

Once the routine of school is learned, living within the fringes is easy. Freshmen usually maintain a low profile while learning the Harding lifestyle. Sophomores, especially at pep sessions, are uninhibited, usually displaying the most spirit. The Juniors reflect back over the previous two years and decide that "mellowing out" is the most practical course for them. And when the senior year comes around, the behavior is definitely rowdy. The last fling. Almost time to leave the circle of school and approach life outside . . .

On the fringe

Mr. Michael Bonahoom: I try to make sure Harding has the best academic environment for learning. Students are our most important product. We live with our motto, "We care about kids."

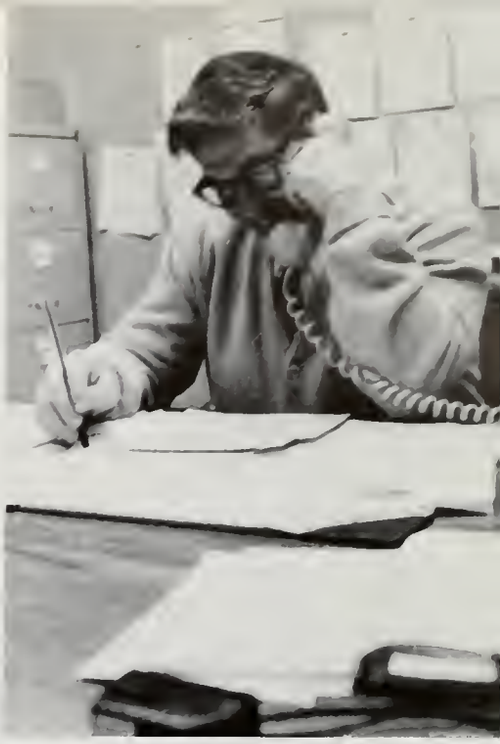
Paraprofessionals: Phyllis Kerr, June Moord, Pam Springer, Sue Harless, Rose Nartker

Guidance: JoAnn Harrah, John Mader, Dolores Engebrecht

Mr. Bob Rohrbacher: I deal with attendance, teacher evaluation and building maintenance . . . and I deal with all that paper work that Mr. Bonahoom doesn't want to do!"

Secretaries: Norma Guenin, Mary Ann Funk, Rosemary Crance, Kaye Lobsiger, Sandy Gratz

A Commons patrol often started out the day for Mr. Rohrbacher, assistant principal. He stops to talk with Pam Davis.



Mr. Sam Coffman: My primary job is school discipline. I also handle car registration, the parking lot and the bus situation.

School Board: Row 1: Robert Beerbower, Merle Gerig, DeWayne Heckley. Row 2: Mary Barksdale, David Hockemeyer, David Sharp, Thomas Kurtz.

Mr. Arnie Oetting: My responsibility is activities. I am also the athletic director. All extra-curricular events are handled through my office.

The things teachers say

ALLEN, STAN: "It's the weekend again, so don't do anything illicit, illegal, or immoral. And above all else, have a miserable weekend."

AMSTUTZ, JERRY: "Ya did good."

AURAND, GENE: "Ladies and gentlemen . . . your attention please."

AUSTIN, JAN: "That'll cost you a Snickers bar."

BALL, ARNIE: "Go for it."

BECKER, JOHN: "Now, back at the ranch."

BUCKMASTER, MARIA: "Efe, efe, efe."

CHARLESTON, COLLEEN: "My son Joey, he's so cute."

COLDERBANK, MILDRED: "You're more trouble than six kids."

COLE, GORDON: "Now, let's just think this over."

DUPONT, JIM: "You can lead a horse to water, but you have to paint a barn."

EHINGER, MIKE: "Why don't you people understand this?"

EICHENAUER, MAX: "Hit him back!"

FAUROTE, JOE: "Guidance is just around th corner."

FLICKINGER, RICK: "What am I gonna do thi week . . . what am I gonna do today?

FRICK, HARLAN: "You're tougher than that."

GOODIN, JOYCE: "Hold the questions . . . I'm gonna change my name."

HISSONG, CRAIG: "This baby here . . ."

KING, TOM: "Don't let me interrupt you guys."

LEBRECHT, RUTH: "If you can, ignore the typ ing mistakes . . . I had a professor . . ."

LEE, MAMIE: "Will you pleeeeeez . . ."

LEE, MIKE: "Well, pin a rose on your lapel."

LEUENBERGER, PAT: "Would anyone like t add to this?"

LEY, DIANE: "Certainment"

LONGTINE, ANNE: "I don't want to hear fron the same people . . . I want to hear from some one new."

LUTZ, DAVE: "I brought a form to class for al of you to fill out (test)."

MARSH, MARY: "All right everybody, sit dowr in your little seats."

McKINNON, BOB: "It's the real world, kid."

MERGENTHAL, SONDRA: "A for the day."

MILLER, ARLENE: "That's tacky."

MILLER, JERRY: "Hallelujah, brothers and sis ters. Does you believe!"

MOAKE, GAIL: "Your own transcribing."

NELSON, SUE: "Let's go."

OVERMEYER, MARY: "Get in the room."

PHILLIPS, EVELYN: "You know I am a stickler on that."

PIERCE, SHIRLEY: "If you would kindly . . ."

RIDER, VERRILL: "Are there any questions?"

SAUDERS, EVERETT: "It's as easy as falling of a log backwards with a push."

SCHILLING, DICK: "That math problem is a pud deluxe."

SCHMIDT, JEANNETTE: "Thanks a lot Butch."

SHAW, DAN: "Get a hair cut."

SHEAK, ALICE: "Nothing in life is free."

SIPE, LINDA: "All right, class, be quiet."

SNIDER, THOM: "Put your feet on the floor This is not a country club."

SNYDER, DUANE: "You got a pass?"

STANSKI, RON: "Get to work!"

WEIDEMEIER, MIKE: "We pick on him too much."

WHITE, JANE: "If something is funny, possibly you should share it with the class."

WILSON, ED: "Back when I was young."

WRIGHT, DEBBIE: "Use the first answer that pops into your head."

YANT, LARRY: "Shut up and get to work."

YOUNG, BOB: "Cool It."

Sergeant Springer keeps the order

To almost all students, Mrs. Pam Springer is more than just a paraprofessional.

Mrs. Springer is known to most students as "Sergeant Springer." This is a very unusual name for a paraprofessional, but many students do believe that it fits.

"About two years ago, I came back from lunch and found a piece of tacky cloth on my desk with Sergeant written on it. I don't know who did it, but I figure it was a boy. "Sergeant" was spelled wrong," says Mrs. Springer.

If you were to ask the students at Harding, they would say that Mrs. Springer is very strict and that she hates freshmen.

"No, I don't hate freshmen. The problem with them is just that they aren't in a grade school anymore. They're in the big time now, and they act immature. I don't know if I'm strict. All I know is what is right in this resource center and what is wrong. What I say is right."

Mrs. Springer figures that she is only in that center to teach one thing: discipline. Also, she says that there is only one special rule in her area.

"My rule is: You do As I Say While You Are In This Area and We'll Get Along Just Fine." When students are in the resource center, they are in a strictly controlled and disciplined area. "Discipline is all I have to teach," said Mrs. Springer.

At any time of the day, Mrs. Pam Springer could be found at her desk in B100. She graded papers for teachers, answered the phone and supervised the B100 resource center.

A little

The Girls' Volleyball team won the SAC and could therefore present Mr. Michael Bonahoom with the trophy at a pep session.

In this day and age of preservatives, additive calories and health foods, many people take ca of their bodies. But some of the teachers at Ha ding don't seem to worry about nutrition becau good nutrition does not seem to get them throug the day.

Some teachers require sugar for high energ Mrs. Jan Austin has been famous for consumi packages of Snicker bars as well as chocolate co ered peanuts. Mr. Jerry Miller loves those cinn mon-coated sugar cookies his students bring hi Mrs. Maria Buckmaster drinks Lipton Cup- Soup many mods during the day.

Obviously, many teachers have strange nut tional value systems. Some others have strang and different drinking habits. Mr. Dan Sha drinks his coffee-with-cream in a Farrah Fawce nutrition

Majors mug. Mr. Harlan Frick drinks a pepsi and eats a Hostess Ho-Ho several times during the day. Mrs. Diane Ley drinks her coffee out of an 8 year-old mug. Mr. Stan Allen always drinks a bottle of Dr. Pepper during homeroom.

And then there is lunch.

Before Mrs. Jeannette Schmidt went to the hospital for the birth of her baby, her 12-13 class presented her with a balloon bouquet.

Not one day passed when our school nurse Judy Hapke didn't see a student with a problem. Bandaging feet and soothing sore throats were just a few of her jobs.

A book of hearts

Members of the Senior class play a game of buck-buck during the lunch mods down in the Commons.

This year, the annual Senior Dinner was hosted by Mr. Robert Rohrbacher and the Senior class officers. A book of hearts was presented to Mark Dailey and Laura Mast. Class Clown awards were presented to Tom Mattix and Connie Chovan. Stuffed panty hose went to Damian Maggos and a pair of Big Mamas were given to Dawn Sternberger. Both were given these awards for "best legs."

Damian Maggos also was awarded the "Most Likely to Succeed" along with Terri Davis. They both received copies of the Wall Street Journal.

Senior Class Officers: Terri Morris, Anne Rech Ginger Clayton, Babs Nartker.

After winning the championship powder-puff game, Karen Goodwin congratulates Teresa Phipps.

Members of the sophomore powder-puff team practice for the game after school.

Erika enjoys ballet

Erika McCord has studied ballet since she was 7 years old. Though she had to stop for a year, she began again recently and is glad to be back.

"I would do more except I don't have time to be in the ballet company or take any more classes than the ones I have," said Erika.

Erika is also interested in acting. She has been in Arena Dinner Theatre productions of "110 In The Shade", "Sugar Water Sunday" and "Red Shoes." She also acted in "Our Town" at Harding. "My ability to dance has landed me many parts," said Erika. In the future, Erika would like to go into theatre, ballet or broadcasting.

Erika McCord has studied ballet for seven years and has danced in many productions.

Freshman powder-puff coaches instruct team members during a break in the game.

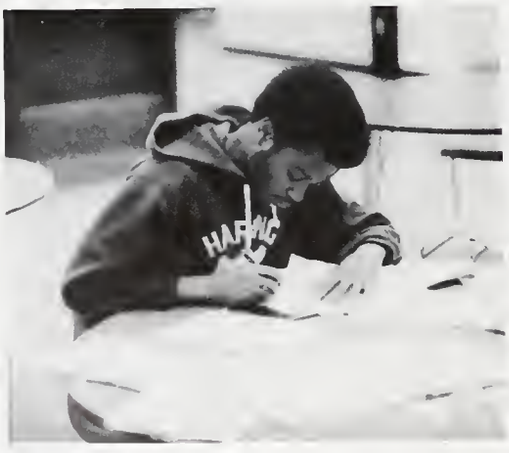
Each class had a chance to sing the class song at various pep session. Dawn Sternberger leads a group of seniors in the senior song.

The cheerleader-sponsored Halloween Dance was well attended. Seniors Tom Mattix and Ron Linehan pose in their costumes.



Senior Stephen Jones works on his chemistry during activity period. Chemistry demanded hours of extra study.

The locker pit area was a favorite stopping point for students between classes and during the lunch mods.

When spring time finally came, students like Rod Sebring and Barb Bermes and Shawn Koehl threw frisbee.

Junior Janet Butler shows spirit by wearing her Razorback hat on Crazy Hat and T-shirt Day.

Winners of the weight-lifting contest this year were Dave Firestine, Tom Johnson, Tim Moore, Tony Saine. Row 2: Faron Chester, Ed Booker, Tom Ballard, Mike Belot, Bryan Wolfe.

And so it goes at Harding . . . students register . . . attend classes . . . study for test . . . sometimes serve detentions . . . sometimes receive honors . . . attend the prom . . . graduate and begin a new life.

It is with great appreciation that we dedicate the 1981 TRACES to Miss Mary L. Marsh. As advisor, she has provided the leadership and dedication necessary for all publications. She has innovated ideas while remaining in the background, making each a "student publication." But beyond her work on publications, she has touched every student in one way or another. She enters a student's life as "just" an advisor, but with time, she becomes much more than that advisor—she becomes a true friend.

After eight years as advisor, she has resigned her post to Mr. Gene Aurand, who plans to introduce new ideas for each publication. Miss Marsh will remain as a teacher, but her work on publications will never be forgotten.

Thanks to the staff

What a year. Fires, fog, a new administrator, and constant reminders of "We are working on the electrical system . . . the fire alarm may go off."

But through it all 25 students worked to produce a 144-page yearbook in 180 days—not an easy task. It is impossible to express my gratitude to those students who worked so hard on the in-class and homework assignments.

Special thanks goes to Dean Rosie for designing the cover and for his hard work in and out of the class. His designing talent will be sorely missed. Thanks also to Carol Boger, Roula Kaplanis, and Tari Wray for collecting the scoreblocks. Thanks to Denise Wick for coming in the middle of the year to help out so much.

Possibly the hardest tasks of writing sports copy were excellently handled by Rick Tomlinson and Blake Sebring. Extra thanks and a hug to Blake for taking on the extra work when we really needed it. And to Bob Steiner for his excellent photography and dedication.

The biggest hugs go to Dan Glus and Miss Marsh for helping me out on the biggest problems. Whenever I felt like giving it all up, they always seemed to come up with the solutions and saved my sanity. Thanks to you all for a fantastic yearbook.

1981 TRACES Editor
